Description The events in the new book, which was conceived when women were still striving for equality in law, the civil service and the professions, have led to the creation of two new, successful legal careers. The book starts in London and covers 'wonderful women' in the running of the world's capital, from the creator of the Victoria and Albert Museum, to the first female police superintendent, DC Sue Sim, who led the Metropolitan Police's Flying Squad. The amazing women of the Ministry of Defence are celebrated in the second part of the book, from the first female Royal Naval officer in her day to the senior most female commander of the Royal Navy. The book also visits legal centres – in the US, the UK and here in the UK – where pioneering legal women are still helping those who come to them for help. Creative and entertaining, this f678ea9f9e
